City appeals funding adjustment

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE - Belle Glade City Finance Director Frank C. Anderson plans to appeal a recent adjustment by the federal government which lowered the city's revenue sharing allocation.

Anderson said that he had made a similar appeal in 1974 with no results.

The adjustment lowers the expected revenue sharing allocation the city can expect from the United States Government by 34.38 percent, according to Anderson.

Earlier estimates had placed the amount the city would receive at $264,663. The adjustment lowers that figure to $180,061. Last year, the city received about $280,956 in revenue sharing funds.

The adjustment is based in large part on a change in the per capita income in the city, according to Anderson.

The per capita income the original estimate was based on was $4,071, a figure derived from 1977 sources. The new per capita figure determined in 1979 was $6,647, an increase of 63.28 percent, Anderson said, who added that he felt that increase was "unreal."

"I just can't believe those figures," he said. "I don't believe this city is that affluent."

Revenue sharing fund allocations are based on population, per capita income, adjusted tax income and intergovernmental transfers, according to Anderson. Per capita income and adjusted tax income are the two most important items, he said.

Anderson said he is trying to obtain facts from the county and other local governments to use in appealing the readjustment.

In South Bay, per capita income dropped only slightly from $3,749 in 1977 to $3,721 in 1979, according to City Clerk Virginia Walker.

This drop in per capita income will mean an increase in South Bay's revenue sharing funds.

The allocation will increase from $64,902 to $95,397.

"I'm just happy they readjusted it," said

Walker. "Although I know how Belle Glade must feel."

In 1974, the Belle Glade allocation was reduced by the government and an appeal failed to change the decision, according to Anderson.

That year, per capita income in the county rose 20.4 percent. In Belle Glade it rose 30.4 percent, while in Pahokee it rose 20.4 percent and in South Bay it rose 20.5 percent.

Revenue sharing funds are provided to local and county governments by the federal government with a minimum of requirements attached.

Anderson and Walker both said their cities use the funds mostly for capital outlay items.

GGH sues Blue Cross

BELLE GLADE - Glades General Hospital is challenging claims by Blue Cross/Blue Shield Insurance Co. of Florida that it made overpayments totaling over $49,000 between 1978 and 1981.

According to Administrator Patrick Lennon, the hospital is seeking a declaratory judgment against the company in the 15th judicial circuit court.

In October 1981, the company had audited the records of about three percent of the patients treated at Glades General from 1978 to 1981, and had determined that it had overpaid $49,307.79 in claims, according to Lennon. He said Blue Cross is asking for repayment of that amount.

Lennon said the hospital objects to Blue Cross taking retrospective audits three years after the case, and said he feels the company should check the validity of each claim as it comes up.

The company has disallowed some of the payments it made because laboratory tests were performed without written orders from doctors, claiming all tests should be done only under written orders, according to Lennon.

Lennon said doctors will ask for the same lab tests for all patients and standing orders should suffice. Requiring written orders is "contrary to what's done in the rest of the country," he said.

Filing deadline draws near

BELLE GLADE - With the deadline for filing for candidacy in the Belle Glade municipal elections less than a week away, both races are unopposed.

The deadline for filing as a candidate in the race is Wednesday, August 25.

So far, only the two incumbents have filed for spots on the ballot in the September 14 election.

Mayor Thomas L.

Altman is running for reelection to his fifth term on the five-member commission.

He has been on the board of commissioners since 1974.

Charles Goodlett is running for a second term, having first been elected to his seat in 1980.

Neither candidate has drawn opposition yet, possibly setting up an uncontested election in each race.

City Clerk June Boglioli said this could be the first uncontested election in the city's history.

Those interested in running for election in the race should contact Boglioli at city hall.

Painter electrocuted at Sugar Co-op Friday

BELLE GLADE - Celestino Sosa, 55, of 932 N.E. 21 St., Belle Glade, a painter for the Sugar Cane Cooperative of Florida was electrocuted Friday, Aug. 13 at the Cooperative.

Sosa was pronounced dead at 11:51 at Glades General Hospital by Dr. C. Venunxopal.

Det. Steve Haller, with the Glades Substation of the Palm Beach County Sheriffs Department, said Sosa's death has been ruled accidental.

Haller said Roberto Exposito, a painter with the Cooperative and a witness to the accident said the two were preparing to paint a two story tank when the accident occurred.

According to the report filed with the Sheriff's Department, Sosa tried repairing an electrical light he was using to illuminate the tank. Exposito had been asked to cut off the power while Sosa repaired the electrical cord. Having repaired the cord, Sosa asked that the power be retored and at that point was electrocuted.

Haller said the Occupational Safety and Health Association (OSHA) completed its report on Monday. However the organization had not released its findings as of Tuesday.

Sosa is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catalina Sosa. Mixon Funeral Home handled local funeral arrangements.

PAHOKEE -- Friday the 13th just wasn't a good day for two Pahoek residents who were charged with dealing in stolen property.

Calvin Eugene McClinton, 18, of 440 East Fifth Street and Willie Fitzgerald, 18, of 349 Eisenhower Drive, were allegedly driving west on East Main Street last Friday when McClinton supposedly pulled out in front of an automobile driven by Amanda Kohr.

McClinton was charged with failure to yield a right of way, according to Pahoek Patrolman Gary Burroughs. Burroughs said Mc-

Clinton asked to have the car towed to their house instead of the garage, but it was towed to a garage owned by Johnny Ellington, anyway.

At the garage, Mc-

Clinton and Fitzgerald allegedly asked if Ellington would open the trunk of the car so they could remove two stolen items. They offered Ellington $10 to open the trunk.

Ellington called the police who opened the trunk and recovered two items supposedly stolen from Pahoek Elementary School: a video cassette recorder valued at $1,000 and a meat slicer valued at $500, according to Burroughs.

When asked how they obtained the items, the suspects claimed they bought them from an unidentified man who told them the items were stolen.

According to Burroughs, the two were charged with dealing in stolen property, and released under $1,000 bond.

Man in custody for stabbings

PAHOKEE -- A Pahoek man is in custody in connection with the stabbing of Pahoek couple Saturday, August 14.

According to Pahoek Police Department reports, Olgan Hawthorne, 25, of 177 Daniel's Place, was charged with two counts of aggravated battery, non-family with a knife.

He allegedly assaulted Locksley Belvett, 27, of 354 Rardin Avenue number 19, early Saturday, August 14.

According to reports, police were first dispatched to the apartment where they received a call that Antoinette Belvett was cut. She had received a two inch cut above the right eye with a knife.

She told police that Hawthorne had cut her and that she knew where he lived.

She and the police went to Hawthorne's residence which was padlocked from the outside, and the police returned Belvett to her apartment.

When she arrived at her apartment, Belvett saw Hawthorne jump from the second floor and police apprehended him.

Belvett's husband, Locksley, had supposedly been attacked by Hawthorne and received a six inch laceration with a knife on his back.

A ten and a half inch knife was found on Hawthorne at the time of his arrest, according to police.

Patrolmen James H. Wagnon and Mike Harlow were the investigating officers.

Mixson worked the crowd of about 100 persons and made a short speech detailing the accomplishments of the Graham administration and plans for the next four years. He emphasized the governor's agricultural programs, hoping to appeal to the area's large farming constituency.

"This is an agricultural community and I am a North Florida farmer myself," he said. "You have remained strongly agricultural, and that's important to us."

"The long-range potential for jobs in this state is in agriculture. Our interest is to make sure an important part of our business in Florida is

Officer witnesses shooting

BELLE GLADE -- A shooting which was witnessed by Belle Glade Police Officer Albert Dowdell Sunday, August 16, left one man dead.

Dowdell was at a pay telephone at 325 SW

Avenue B, at about 6:32 p.m., when Frisnel Saintil, 23, of Belle Glade, approached from the east on the 400 block of SW Avenue B Place.

Saintil had filed two complaints that weekend against Andre Pierre Gedeus, 31, of Belle Glade, charging him with battery.

Dowdell had observed Gedeus standing on the corner of SW Fourth Street and SW Avenue B Place when he approached the telephone.

While talking on the telephone, he heard a shot and looked up to allegedly see a steel blue revolver in Saintil's right hand. Saintil supposedly shot Gedeus five times before Dowdell ordered him to drop the gun. Saintil dropped the gun and surrendered, according to police reports.

Gedeus died at Glades General Hospital at 7:03 a.m.

According to the report, Saintil confessed to the murder and said he had to shoot Gedeus because Gedeus was approaching him with a weapon in his coat pocket.

Saintil is in custody facing a first degree murder charge, according to police.

Police believe a .38 calibre weapon was used in the incident, according to Inspector Michael Miller.

By ALMA HENRY

BELLE GLADE—John "Brad" Culverhouse, 35, of Fort Pierce, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the new 12th U.S. Congressional District recently brought his campaign to the Glades.

Culverhouse, an attorney and a fifth generation Floridian, met with members of the Glades agricultural industry at the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative on Wednesday, Aug. 11.

Culverhouse speaking to the crowd of approximately 25 said one of his areas of concern is Florida agriculture. A rancher in St. Lucie County, Culverhouse said the 12 district is second largest district land-wise in the state and district serve as the heart of Florida agriculture industry.

Culverhouse also told the gathering in the interest of the Florida agriculture community will seek to serve on the Congressional Agriculture Committee. Presently there are no Floridian on the committee.

Perspective

This election needs more participants

Unless some Belle Glade citizens decide within the next seven days that they want to run for city office, the two Belle Glade municipal seats will be filled next year with their incumbents.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman and Commissioner Charles Goodlett are the only qualified candidates at press time for elective office in the city.

We think that is repugnant and contrary to the American system.

Not that the candidates themselves bother us. We are sure the mayor and commissioner are very qualified and conscientious towards their civic duty as leaders on the municipal government.

What disturbs us is the lack of competition.

Competition in the elective process is a very important part of the American system.

It can bring forward divergent points of views that may be helpful in solving problems.

It can expose new issues to public scrutiny.

Most of all, it offers the voters a choice.

The lack of competition indicates a society which is apathetic or unwilling to challenge the norm.

We would like to think that there are more than two people interested in serving on the two seats up for election this year.

We urge anyone interested in serving on the city commission to file their qualifying papers before the August 25 deadline.

The citizens of Belle Glade deserve a choice.

JIM JONES
BOILER PLATE

At face value

Talk about name recognition. Movie stars love it, ordinary folk are flattered by it — so long as the fame is based on good reputation, rather than notoriety, and politicians positively thrive on it.

A politician who no one has ever heard of is unlikely to get many votes. That is unless is opponent is known for the wrong reasons.

I can tell you about name recognition. The other day I ran into a fellow I hadn't seen in years. He wanted to introduce me to his father. The only problem is that he called me Biff Lampton. Biff hasn't worked here in two years.

I don't really mind though, because some people still call me Bill, as in Bill Rogers. That wouldn't be so bad if they were getting me confused with either the golfer or the marathon runner. But no. They met me confused with Bill Rogers, a fellow who use to report from the Glades and fled to the luxury of Naples at least three years ago.

No, I really don't mind being confused with the lesser-known Bill Rogers despite the fact that I am far handsomer. At least that is what one authority who I respect highly, my wife, says. When I hear a voice like that with such credibility, I listen.

I never really had a yearn for fame. I have no desire to run for elected office, to be a movie star, or to go down in history as a notorious sort of figure.

Besides, they are always rewriting the history books. I came across a tidbit the other day that Alexander the Great was gay? I have to ask myself, how in the world historians find out something like that. I always thought Alex was too busy conquering the world. If he were alive, he would probably say it was a false rumor, started by his enemies in Persia or India.

There is name identification and then there is name identification. At one time in the Glades area, there was Jim Jones at this paper, Dean Jones at the Glades Times, and Bob Jones at the Glades Trend. It got to be kind of confusing with all the Joneses around. None of us were related (or for that matter are), which is probably a great relief for all concerned.

There was little family resemblance anyway. I you called Dean, Bill Jones, you would have to call me Little Jones.

Speaking of Dean, and I hope he won't mind me repeating this, there were once a delegation of Chinese from the Peoples Republic who were touring the Glades area. One of the things which most impressed them, however was Dean's birth. One of them told Dean there aren't many people his size in China. Dean who back, in accustomed Dean Jones style, that there aren't too many people his size in this country — either I'm sure there is some sort of moral in this tale of name recognition. It may be that fame isn't necessarily in the name. And that a man of substance may be recognized, even though he is called "ol' what's his name."

History of the Everglades

20 YEARS AGO
THE BELLE GLADE HERALD
AUGUST 9, 1962

The Pahokee Chamber of Commerce endorsed a joint hospital to serve the residents of Belle Glade and Pahokee.

The endorsement was made in preparation of an Aug. 21 election on whether the joint hospital ought to be built or whether the two cities should maintain separate hospitals.

Chamber directors said they were impressed with the logic of the argument that the small patient load of the separate facilities made it impossible to get many specialists in the Glades.

In a related story, a consultant told the Hospital Taxpayers League the best site for a new hospital, joint or separate, would be at the site of Belle Glade Memorial Hospital.

The league was formed and the consultant called in to get an independent evaluation on the problem.

The Bank of Pahokee was in the midst of remodeling an adjoining building, which would be connected to the bank building to more than double its size.

The bank's air conditioning was being upgraded and remodeling included the addition of a ladies' lounge and an employees' kitchenette.

The lobby was being expanded to include what was then being used as offices for the president and his secretary.

30 YEARS AGO
THE BELLE GLADE HERALD
AUGUST 15, 1952

The South Bay City Council lopped $52.50 a month off Police Chief R.C. White's salary, purportedly for refusing to operate a speed trap.

White had recently been in the limelight for eliminating bolita operations in South Bay, an action preceded by a tightening up of liquor laws in South Bay.

White said his reward was to have his salary slashed because he had failed to bring in sufficient revenues in the form of fines and forfeitures.

Police Commissioner Gordon Bowen said White's statement was wrong but he said he had not had, "one ounce of cooperation," from White.

"This town is growing," Bowen was quoted as saying. "It needs more revenue. Mr. White just ain't bringing in enough revenue."

In a later statement, Mayor M.J. Hardy, who at first refused to comment, said the council hadn't told White to create a speed trap but that there was a danger from high-speed traffic on the city's highways.

Delano Bill Mathis, son of D.B. "Bama" Mathis of Belle Glade, was critically injured in a mill accident in Cantonment, a small town 15 miles from Pensacola.

Mathis was working in a St. Regis Paper Company mill when a swinging piece of machinery struck him, knocking him unconscious for 13 hours.

He was intermittently unconscious for 72 hours and his parents drove to Pensacola to be with him while he was in the hospital there.

40 YEARS AGO
THE EVERGLADES NEWS
AUGUST 14, 1942

Paul Rardin, a member of the Education, Information and Morale Committee of the Pahokee Canal Point Defense Council, spiked a rumor that a Canal Point man had been arrested by the FBI.

Rardin said he immediately investigated rumors he'd heard that FBI agents had arrested John Kautez, a local farmer, for possession of a short wave radio transmitter, and carried him to Miami.

He said he quickly found there were no foundations for the rumor.

Kautez was a naturalized citizen born in Saratoga, Russia. A son, Henry, was serving in the Army Air Corps. Another son, John, had just applied for induction into the Marine Corps and third son, Roy, was in defense work in Carolina.

Pahokee Mayor O.B. McClure announced the passage of a city ordinance that set a fine of $50 or 60 days in prison, or both, for resident violating blackout regulations.

McClure said all businesses would have to be range for switches on the outside of the building so police and air raid wardens could switch on or off lights without entering the burgd pf0

Two fish caught on one hook broke a record, a coming to a front page story.

It all happened when Frank and Lewis Friem Bud Wroten and Crawford Mock went fishing in Salgro.

"It seems the boys were pulling 'em in with li the effort when Bud caught a snapper and a lad fish on the same hook."

"The fishermen had plenty of luck that day, the story read. "More than 80 pounds of dresse fish were caught and brought home, hnz of ti group reported."

Speed Skiing

To most Americans, the record speed of the fastest skier in the world—over 125 miles an hour—is hard to imagine.

But consider this: The speed record for the Olympic bobsled run at Lake Placid is 81 mph. The speed of a free-falling parachutist before opening the chute is between 100 and 120 mph.

"We have already seen other signs of damage, such as the intrusion of saltwater into underground aquifers, the destruction of the Kissimmee River, the flooding of wildlife habitats and severe droughts throughout the state, despite the fact that Florida GETS more rain than most of the country."

ARC offers special courses

BELLE GLADE—The Association for Retarded Citizens—Glades Area, a private non-profit agency located in Belle Glade serving retarded citizens in Western Palm Beach County, offers Glades "special" residents a well rounded educational and vocational program.

According to Executive director Kris Mennella, the agency serves clients living in Pahokee, Canal Point, Belle Glade and South Bay.

The ARC School and administrative offices are located at 601 West Canal St., Belle Glade. Mrs. Carol Haller is the Program Coordinator and directs the activities of all the programs.

The local ARC services include:

- A Pre-School program for 15 mentally retarded children from 0-5 years of age. The program operates Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:30 and 3 p.m., and has an annual budget exceeding 70,000. Shirley Thibodeau serves as the Supervising Teacher.

- An Adult Education program for 12 mentally retarded adults over 18 years of age is supervised by Mrs. Sue Lewis. The program teaches the adult basic survival skills; such as basic education skills, and personal hygiene.

- A home based infant intervention program for 10 mentally retarded infant or "at risk" serves children from birth up to age two. Miss Rebecca Wright, the teacher, makes weekly visits to students homes to work with both the child and the parent.

- One of agency's newest programs is a pre-vocational program for 17 mentally retarded adults over age 18. Areas of training include operation of an aluminum recycling business and a lawn maintenance program. The program helps students adjust to a work oriented environment. Ms. Gloria Warren serves as the program supervisor.

- A Monday night education/recreation program provides social and life coping skills to 20 mentally retarded adults. Ms. Mary Ellis oversees the program.

Ms. Mennella said ARC also provides transportation for clients participating in both the pre-school and adult program.

Referrals are accepted from agencies, individuals and medical professionals.

For more information about being a member of the ARC or volunteering your services call Ms. Mennella at 996-4335.

agriculture." The crowd consisted mostly of Clewiston's community and business elite, and included virtually every candidate for office countywide. The guests milled about, enjoyed drinks and hors d'oeuvres, and waited their turn to meet the lieutenant governor.

Mixson warmed up his audience with anecdotes and self-deprecating humor, then eased into his campaign themes: crime, education, the elderly, business and agriculture.

"We've attracted 100,000 industrial and high-technology jobs in the last four years," he said. "This has served us well because our unemployment is going down while in the north it's going up."

"We've made great progress in turning this business of crime around. We've put more than $250 million into these programs, like prisons."

Mixson said many Southwest Florida residents have asked him about highway and road improvements. He said projects like these deserve to be funded, but the state has a problem with needs exceeding revenues.

Now in his third week of travelling around the state, Mixson said he is in his element campaigning.

"I personally like campaigning," he said. "I love meeting people. It inspires me to great efforts."

Before appearing in Clewiston Monday night, Mixson spent the day in Naples, and planned to have breakfast in Okechobee Tuesday morning, followed this week by visits to Hardy and DeSoto counties.

And what of the lieutenant-governorship, a position others have found dull and uninspiring? "By election and by friendship I feel I am the closest person to the governor," he said. "I feel I have total access. I don't make the final decisions, but I feel I am a part of those decisions."

Palm Beach Junior College Glades expands

BELLE GLADE -- Palm Beach Junior College-Glades keeps growing and growing.

When Provost Cecil Conley first arrived in the Glades in 1972 as executive dean, classes were taught in the National Guard Armory, at churches, the airport, Glades Central Community High School Annex and the prison.

Since January 1975, PBJC-Glades students have been attending most of their classes at the main campus in Belle Glade.

This Spring, the new Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center opened its doors, and more growth is planned.

Long range plans call for an athletic facility with playing fields and handball and tennis courts.

Conley, provost at the college, said those plans are still being worked on.

In the meantime, the college is expanding its curriculum. A course in Conversational English will be offered this fall, along with an expanded physical education curriculum. Golf and archery will be added to a curriculum which already included bowling, tennis and physical fitness, according to Conley, who's been provost since 1977.

The expanded physical education curriculum is possible because of the acquisition of Jan Bottoms, formerly with Christian Day School.

Students at PBJC-Glades can earn AA or AS degrees. Conley said that if previous years are any indication, between 600 and 700 students will enroll in credit courses.

Another 700 to 800 will enroll in non-credit courses, he said.

Registration for the fall term can be completed up to August 24, when classes begin, said Conley, although he urged early registration.

The campus is located at 1977 College Drive in Belle Glade, and the telephone number is 996-3055.

The school offers free tuition to Glades students who finish in the top ten percent of their class.

Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center

Cultural Arts Center season to start Sept. 8

BELLE GLADE -- The first season at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center will start Wednesday, September 8, with a Japanese dance performance, according to Judy Schiele, the director and coordinator of the center.

Gayko Uchiyama will be featured in an 8 p.m. performance of various traditional Japanese dances.

Her performance will start the first cultural arts season at PBJC-Glades, a season which Schiele said should feature at least one event a month at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

Already scheduled for shows this fall are two events in November and one in October.

The Sweet Adelines, a singing group from West Palm Beach, will perform at the center sometime in October. In November, the center will host a professional acting troupe's performance of a mystery play, "Angel Street."

Also that month, a family concert will be given by Theodore Lettvin.

The center opened its doors in the Spring and Schiele took over as director and coordinator July 1.

She was a former high school teacher at Glades Day School in Belle Glade before assuming her job at PBJC-Glades.

She said a misconception has grown in the community that the center is booked through 1983 and unavailable.

"We have many open dates to schedule events," she said, adding that the college would be willing to listen to anyone who wants to schedule something at the center. Season tickets will be offered for sale for the events the center hosts through January. Those tickets will go on sale in September, said Schiele.

Those who wish to make donations to keep the theatre alive may do so through a "Friends of the Theatre" organization in September, also. Those donations will be tax deductible, said Schiele.

King takes over at Christian Day

BELLE GLADE -- When Christian Day opens its doors to students August 23, there will be two new principals and seven new faculty members to greet them.

Gloria J. King has moved into the high school principal's office and Karen Phillips will be elementary school principal, in addition to her duties as a teacher. King has been with Christian Day School for 11 years as a teacher, high school coordinator and assistant principal.

She replaces Arvine Bell who was principal for three years.

Seven teachers will be joining the faculty for their first full year with the school, according to King.

Robin Waggoner, who started at the school in April, will be continuing in her role as a music teacher. Waggoner was associated with a Christian singing group and recorded an album, according to King.

Bob Hensley, who also joined the staff in the middle of last year, will start his first full year as a high school mathematics teacher.

Barb Weippert will teach kindergarten and Nancy Kritzman will teach the third grade.

Kim Lyle will teach the sixth grade. Eva Rankin has started as a high school science teacher and Marlene Pickard will teach science to junior high schoolers.

Other changes will also greet the students. A hot lunch program will be offered for the first time, replacing the sandwich meals previously offered.

A new scheduling system which includes split lunches has also been adopted.

The football team, coached last year by Woody Salvatore, will be coached by James Jacks this year. He'll be assisted by John Chambliss.

The team will be playing on its own football field, another first for the school. The first

Two public high schools serve Glades

Two high schools serve the Glades Area. Pahokee High School and Glades Central Community School offers academic training for students living in Pahokee, Belle Glade and surrounding Glades communities.

Jack Redding serves as principal of Pahokee High School. Assisting Redding will be Robert Fincannon, assistant principal for curriculum and Antoine Russell, assistant principal for administrative services.

The "Fighting Devils" will open its doors for students August 19.

All incoming eighth graders should register on August 19. All new students may register anytime between August 19 and August 25.

Approximately 800 students are expected to enroll at Pahokee High School.

Glades Central Community School the largest school in the Glades, serve students living in Belle Glade, Runyon Village, Ritta Camp, Lake Harbor, South Shore Village, and other surrounding communities.

Glades Central was born in 1970 after students from Lake Shore High School and Belle Glade High School was merged into one.

Glades Central offers a full time academic program for both average and advance students. Academics are supplemented with a vocational program. Students may take vocational courses both at Glades Central and at West Tech.

Other offerings include special education and a compensatory education program. Registration is set to start Thursday, Aug. 19. Seniors are to register from 8:30 to 11:30 on Thursday, Aug. 19 and Eleventh graders are to register from 1:30 to 3:30 on the same day.

On Friday, Aug. 20, tenth graders are to register from 8:30 to 11:30 and ninth graders from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Students who fail to register and show up for the first day of class on Aug. 25, will be registered and sent home. When they return to school on Thursday, Aug. 26, their schedule will be ready for them, having been printed out overnight by computer.

School hours for Glades Central are from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Glades Central also offers its students a diversified sports program. Daniel Brown, a graduate of Glades Central will serve as the Raiders football coach. George Mattes is the head basketball coach.

Glades Day School consolidates campus

Last year, Glades Day opened its school year with two campuses, one in Pahokee and the main campus in Belle Glade.

The school has consolidated and closed down the school in Pahokee, which used to serve grade schoolers, according to Headmaster William Branyon.

Glades Day School is the largest of the private schools in the area, and will continue the same type of curriculum it has in the past, said Branyon.

The school will open its doors Monday, August 23, for classes. The campus is located at 400 NE Avenue L in Belle Glade, and students may be registered up to opening day, according to Branyon.

The school's phone number is 996-6769.

The school's football team, the Fighting Gators, opens its season Friday September 10 in a home contest against Pinecrest. September, the Gators will host a jamboree. The teams scheduled to participate in that jamboree are John Carroll, Moore Haven and Benjamin. The jamboree starts at 7 p.m.

The school's volleyball schedule starts with an away contest against Benjamin and Christian Day September 14.

The school's colors are green, white and gold.

game on the field, located at six mile bend on State Road 80, will be Friday, September 24 at 3:30 p.m. against St. Edwards.

The Crusaders open their season Friday, September 3, against West Academy in Fort Lauderdale.

The volleyball team will open its schedule at home against Lake Worth Christian Friday, September 3.

Kathy McReynolds coaches the volleyball team.

Orientation will be today from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

The new hours for the school will be 8 a.m. to 2:40 p.m.

Enrollment is expected to be about 350, said King, adding that's about all the school can handle right now.

The new faculty increased the number of

East Lake Middle School

PAHOKEE East Lake Middle School, one of two middle schools in the Glades, serves students in grades fifth, sixth and seven in Pahokee.

East Lake Middle School is presently in the midst of receiving a face lift. The entire school has been painted. A new front lawn graces the entrance of the administrative office and a new principal and a new assistant principal will greet new and returning students.

Mrs. Eugenia Jones is the new principal of the school. During the 1981-82 school year, she served as assistant principal of curriculum at East Lake. Joe Skinner has been appointed assistant principal of curriculum. David Hill serves as assistant principal of administration.

East Lake Middle School offers a number of programs to its students including band, Academic Games, Future Farmers of America, Palm Beach County Science Fair, and Reading Is Fundamental.

And for the first time, East Lake Middle will offer its students an Art Program. Mrs. Sharon Hearn of Jupiter is the new Art teacher. She plans to emphasize basic drawing and design and show students how they relate to both fine art and commercial art.

Mrs. Hearn feels that it's especially important to relate classroom art to the aesthetics of students daily life—such as graphics for television, billboards, and books.

Also joining the staff at East Lake Middle School are teachers, Dominick Balzano, Jr., and Cindy Tidwell. A native of New York, Mr. Balzano received a Bachelors of Arts degree in History and a California Teaching Credential from San Diego State University.

As a teacher, historian and resident of the Glades, Mr. Balzano said he look forward to working with the faculty and students at East Lake Middle School, as well as the community.

Miss Cindy Tidwell, chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon in Pahokee joins the East Lake staff as a fifth grade teacher.

Registration for students entering East Lake Middle School will be held on Thursday, Aug. 19 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Students that have not previously attended school in Palm Beach County must have proof of immunization, a physical and birth certificate at the time of registration. Students without this proof will not be allowed to register.

Mr. Skinner said parents of all students who will be attending East Lake Middle School are urged to come to school on Thursday and register their children.

School begins for students on Wednesday, August 25. School hours are 8:45 to 3:30 p.m.

Lake Shore Middle School

BELLE GLADE—Lake Shore Middle School is one of two middle schools in the Glades. The school serves seventh and eighth grade students living in Belle Glade and surrounding communities.

Principal Ed Foley is proud of the progress made by Lake Shore Middle during the past four years.

Students have improved their academic test scores, are leaders in athletic competition and attend one of the most attractive schools in town. During 1980, the Belle Glade Beautification Committee awarded the school its trophy for the best school grounds in the community.

One of the ways the school has improved its academic performance is through a computer program that fills a compensatory need.

Lake Shore Middle School students participate in Academic Games and Spelling Bee Competitions.

The school also offers the students participation in the band, cheerleading, various school clubs, and sporting activities.

The Road Runners have been county football, and basketball champs.

The school colors are red and white. Approximately 1,000 students are expected to enroll at Lake Shore Middle School this year.

attend school there.

Harry Davis is principal at Belle Glade Elementary, located on West Canal Street North. The phone number is 996-4990, and the school colors are red and white.

Belle Glade Elementary

will also be affected by the restructuring. It used to serve kindergartners through fourth graders.

There is also an Exceptional Child Education center at Belle Glade Elementary.

Schooling required for license

TALLAHASSEE—Beginning October 1, persons applying for licenses as hail bond runners, life insurance or surplus lines agents will have to meet minimum requirements.

Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter said today. Previously, qualified persons seeking a license as life insurance or surplus lines agents only had to pass a state exam in order to be licensed. In the case of hail bond runners, even an exam was necessary.

Now, under the rule-making authority granted him with the passage of the new insurance code, Gunter has proposed new rules for anyone wishing to become licensed in one of these three fields.

Under the proposed new rules, life insurance agent applications will have to complete 40 course hours, in addition to passing the state exam, in order to be licensed.

Surplus lines agents can either attend classes for 60 hours or substitute one year's experience, in addition to the exam, in order to be licensed.

Hail bond runners must take 20 hours of course work in criminal justice, in addition to the previous requirement of working under the supervision of a licensed hail bondsmen, in order to be licensed.

These new standards are part of an overall plan by the Department to upgrade existing guidelines for license qualification courses with a more definite set of rules. These proposed rules will result in changes in the current licensing procedures for the areas mentioned.

Gunter said that most schools offering license qualification courses already are in compliance with the requirements laid down in the proposed rules, which will take effect in October.

These proposed rules should provide greater clarification and guidance to schools offering license qualification insurance course instruction, Gunter said.

SPORTS SHORTS

Speed Skating

To most Americans, the record speed of the fastest skater in the world—over 25 miles an hour—is hard to imagine.

But consider this: The record for the Olympic ice hockey run at Lake Placid is 81 mph. The speed of a free-falling parachutist before opening the chute is between 100 and 120 mph.

Now, it may mean something to know that Franz Weber of Innsbruck, Austria, blazed down the three-quarter mile course at Silverton, Colorado, in the Camel International Speed Skiing Championships this year at 126.238 mph.

Weber's wasn't the only record run in the skiing event sponsored by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Marti Martin-Kuntz, 31, of Telluride, Colorado, shattered the former women's record of 109.6 mph with a run of 111.290 mph! She is the first American woman to hold the record.

A Rejoice for Our Foundation

To the people of Israel the temple at Jerusalem was the symbol of God's abiding care over them. One of the greatest drives in their life was their desire to rebuild the temple of Solomon that was destroyed when Israel fell to the Babylonians in 596. It was their belief that God could not be truly worshipped except in the temple at Jerusalem.

King Herod, in attempting to gain influence with the people of Israel, decided to rebuild the temple during his reign, prior to the birth of Jesus. He decided to outdo the temple of Solomon, if not in beauty, then size. The main sanctuary of Herod's temple was 150 feet long and 90 feet wide and 150 feet high and was made of immense blocks of marble. The cornerstone of the temple was 19 feet long and 7 feet thick and was used to bind the walls together for it determined the foundation. Herod, in order to build this temple, went to a great deal of trouble.

The Jewish leaders did not want Gentiles to build it because the leaders felt it would be defiled if Gentile hands touched it and the Jewish people did not have rock masons to do this, so two years was taken in training 1,000 priests to become rock masons. In addition, to be even more certain, these priests wore their priestly robes as they followed their tasks as rock masons. Other than the 1,000 rock masons, there were 10,000 trained carpenters and other artisans plus 18,000 workers building the temple. Work began in 20

B.C. and was completed in 46 years.

To give additional size to the building, there were double doors that were 45 feet high and 22 feet wide that took a dozen men to close. To the people of Israel, the temple was a symbol of their individuality in their worship of God.

Jesus tells the people, "Have you never read in the Scriptures, 'The very stone which the builders rejected had become the head of the corner and this was the Lord's doing and is marvelous in our eyes'." You can imagine that the stone had been taken out of the quarry and the stonemason, looking at the blueprints, marked and cut the stones to be used in the building. There was one stone that was rejected. It was large and did not look like the grain was good and that it would not show up well. First of all it was passed by and ignored, and then finally, as the other stones were cut, one by one, the rubble fell on this stone and it was completely covered up and forgotten. Then, perhaps the architect and the contractor checked over all the stones and found that the most important stone was missing. They did not have a cornerstone, the stone that was going to be the foundation stone of the building, they questioned the stone masons and the workmen and one of them remembered, "Yes, there is another stone. It is over there in the rubbish pile." This was to be the stone upon which the whole building was to rest.

Jesus reminds the Scribes and Pharisees of the 118th Psalm saying, "Have you not even read this passage, 'The stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone. This is the Lord's way'." The Scribes and Priests felt that they were the ones to give the approval of the Messiah. They could not imagine that they would reject the Messiah as He was inferring. Jesus proves to the scripture searchers that it will be God who will select the cornerstone and not man. Jesus himself will become the cornerstone that supports and ties the whole structure together.

Isaiah prophesies, "He was a man despised and rejected by men and therefore a man acquainted with grief, as one from whom men hid their faces." He was despised and no one honored him. We can imagine the rejection, of first being ignored and then overlooked. As the stone was covered up, so Jesus was pushed further and further back and rejected. And then the Lord, the builder, comes and makes his selection. Isaiah writes, "Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am laying in Zion a foundation, a stone, a tested stone, a precious cornerstone, a stone, a tested stone." God has selected what man rejects and the Kingdom will be founded upon His Son who man has rejected. Just as the stone which the builders of Israel, that is the Jewish authorities, rejected has become the chief stone so Christ comes to lead a new world.

Today the world needs something to hold it together. Man tries to construct an organization and as the organization fails time and time again, the question comes up, realistically, how can we build unless we use a binding stone that will join classes and nations and races. What stone will bind us together except the universal and forgiving Christ? The world must accept that which they have rejected in order to have lasting peace. This will only happen as individuals accept Christ.

Have we not been like the builders, who seeing this awkward stone which has no beauty in itself, first ignoring it, seeing it yet not acknowledging it, then walking by and acknowledging it, yet not reacting to it? Realizing later that this is the only way, and trying to forget, and yet, coming back to the realization that true life can be built only by accepting that which we had rejected and seeing that it is necessary that our life does not have a proper foundation unless it is built upon the foundation stone of Jesus Christ.

FFVA Convention plans underway

Orlando - FFVA President Frank Teets announced that the response has been excellent to invitations mailed out to the association's 39th Annual Meeting which will be held September 22-25 at The Breakers, Palm Beach.

Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association is a non-profit agricultural trade association representing growers, shippers and processors of Florida's vegetable, citrus, tropical fruit & sugar cane industries.

According to Teets, business sessions will include, in addition to the annual membership meeting, informative workshops on two pieces of Federal Initiative and the Immigration Control Act. An update on the association's Intermed program, a concept for shipping products combining rail and truck transportation is also on the workshop agenda.

Teets pointed out that delegates can look forward to an excellent social program including such traditional and enjoyable events as the Welcoming Luncheon; Annual Citrus Breakfast; sponsored again this year by the Florida Citrus Commission; a Western Style Barbecue; and the Annual Banquet which will climax the Convention on Friday evening. While recreational opportunities at The Breakers feature something for everyone, a number of sports activities are scheduled for Friday, September 24, including the Annual Men's Golf Tournament; a T - Round Robin; and a Non-Golfing Putting Tournament.

A number of special events also have been planned for spouses attending the Convention. Teets summarized the Convention plans with the comment, "Everyone is looking forward to the Annual Convention. The program looks very good, the social events are relaxing, and the ambience of The Breakers unparalleled."

Summer Annuals

BY Dr. Robert J. Black
IFAS Extension Horticulturist

Now, during the in-between season for planting colorful summer and fall annuals, is an excellent time to select plants and seeds and to locate easy-to-care-for pots and containers.

Annuals are easy to care for and fast to perfection on to containers provided they are not outgrow the size of their containers. Dwarf varieties of summer annuals may be planted several to a pot, spacing each plant approximately six inches apart. One plant should be enough for a six or eight inch pot. Be sure the annual you choose is a summer flowering type and one that will endure the heat and long days of summer and fall.

Other "children of the sun" which will reward summer days with vivid and continual color in pots may include vinca or periwinkle, portulaca, galliardia or blanket flowers, and ornamental peppers.

There are non-flowering plants, too, for containers, which have a wide range of colorful foliage. The gay summer and fall colors of coleus, antenariantha and acahya or copper leaf are quite adaptable in planter boxes or other containers, and perform well until the arrival of winter.

Lush summer greens for pots may include ferns, fatisia, banana English ivy, elephant ear and aucuba. Unlike most of the flowering annuals, the colorful foliage plants the greens demand a shaded location in the garden.

Even though container plants are easy to care for, they do have their demands for success. The major requirement is that of watering. The hot days of summer quickly dry out the container; therefore, they will need watering at least three times a week, if not more often. Use a slow stream of water so as not to disturb the soil or shallow root area. Potting soil should be loose and well drained to insure good water penetration and to prevent soil compaction.

Plant foods in the potted soils are quickly washed from the soils with continued watering thus need replacement with a bi-weekly feeding of a complete liquid houseplant fertilizer.

The removal of faded blooms of flowering container plants is important, as it is actually a slight pruning process which encourages more branching and more blooms. Terminal shoots of young plants may be pinched back to form a more bushy and well-branched plant in the container even before it starts flowering and during early stages of growth.

The wide selection of colorful summer and fall plants for pots, and the portable aspect of pot gardening, which allows for a change or rearrangement in placement or pot grouping, will guarantee fun and attractiveness to home landscaping. Pot gardening also uses a limited amount of room and a small investment for such big rewards. The gardener who will plan ahead may add rich and vivid color with potted summer and fall annuals to grace the patio, poolside, wall or doorstep.

Chamber sets banquet date

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce has set the date and location for its annual awards banquet.

The banquet will be held at the Belle Glade Elk's Lodge on October 21, it was revealed at the monthly meeting of the board of directors, Thursday, August 12.

The cost per ticket will be determined after the board chooses a caterer.

The chamber has already hired a speaker, W.C. Newberry of Texas, for the event.

According to David Goodlett, the chamber saved $400 by bargaining directly with Newberry instead of a booking agent.

The chamber decided to have 350 tickets printed for the event, but will sell only the amount dictated by the capacity of the room.

"I'd like to see us sell 300, 350 tickets," said James Jacks, the board chairman. "I think we need to sell that many."

The chamber also nominated ten people for director's positions: Kendra Perkins, president of Perkins Farms, Inc.; Bill Schoenfeld, president of Glades Roofing; Jerry Lohman; Steve Weeks of Seminole Supply; John Pitts of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative; John Siver, the postmaster; Jeff Royal of Royal's Inc.; Buddy Sizemore, manager of the Time Savers; Ed Lively of Lively Enterprises and Thomas Montgomery, an attorney.

The members of the chamber will vote on the directors.

The outgoing directors are President James Jacks, D. Bill Mathis, Pedro Gonzalez and Dennis Wedgworth.

A Rejoice for Our Foundation

To the people of Israel the temple at Jerusalem was the symbol of God's abiding care over them. One of the greatest drives in their life was their desire to rebuild the temple of Solomon that was destroyed when Israel fell to the Babylonians in 596. It was their belief that God could not be truly worshipped except in the temple at Jerusalem.

King Herod, in attempting to gain influence with the people of Israel, decided to rebuild the temple during his reign, prior to the birth of Jesus. He decided to outdo the temple of Solomon, if not in beauty, then size. The main sanctuary of Herod's temple was 150 feet long and 90 feet wide and 150 feet high and was made of immense blocks of marble. The cornerstone of the temple was 19 feet long and 7 feet thick and was used to bind the walls together for it determined the foundation. Herod, in order to build this temple, went to a great deal of trouble.

The Jewish leaders did not want Gentiles to build it because the leaders felt it would be defiled if Gentile hands touched it and the Jewish people did not have rock masons to do this, so two years was taken in training 1,000 priests to become rock masons. In addition, to be even more certain, these priests wore their priestly robes as they followed their tasks as rock masons. Other than the 1,000 rock masons, there were 10,000 trained carpenters and other artisans plus 18,000 workers building the temple. Work began in 20

B.C. and was completed in 46 years.

To give additional size to the building, there were double doors that were 45 feet high and 22 feet wide that took a dozen men to close. To the people of Israel, the temple was a symbol of their individuality in their worship of God.

Jesus tells the people, "Have you never read in the Scriptures, 'The very stone which the builders rejected had become the head of the corner and this was the Lord's doing and is marvelous in our eyes'." You can imagine that the stone had been taken out of the quarry and the stonemason, looking at the blueprints, marked and cut the stones to be used in the building. There was one stone that was rejected. It was large and did not look like the grain was good and that it would not show up well. First of all it was passed by and ignored, and then finally, as the other stones were cut, one by one, the rubble fell on this stone and it was completely covered up and forgotten. Then, perhaps the architect and the contractor checked over all the stones and found that the most important stone was missing. They did not have a cornerstone, the stone that was going to be the foundation stone of the building, they questioned the stone masons and the workmen and one of them remembered, "Yes, there is another stone. It is over there in the rubbish pile." This was to be the stone upon which the whole building was to rest.

Jesus reminds the Scribes and Pharisees of the 118th Psalm saying, "Have you not even read this passage, 'The stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone. This is the Lord's way'." The Scribes and Priests felt that they were the ones to give the approval of the Messiah. They could not imagine that they would reject the Messiah as He was inferring. Jesus proves to the scripture searchers that it will be God who will select the cornerstone and not man. Jesus himself will become the cornerstone that supports and ties the whole structure together.

Isaiah prophesies, "He was a man despised and rejected by men and therefore a man acquainted with grief, as one from whom men hid their faces." He was despised and no one honored him. We can imagine the rejection, of first being ignored and then overlooked. As the stone was covered up, so Jesus was pushed further and further back and rejected. And then the Lord, the builder, comes and makes his selection. Isaiah writes, "Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am laying in Zion a foundation, a stone, a tested stone, a precious cornerstone, a stone, a tested stone." God has selected what man rejects and the Kingdom will be founded upon His Son who man has rejected. Just as the stone which the builders of Israel, that is the Jewish authorities, rejected has become the chief stone so Christ comes to lead a new world.

Today the world needs something to hold it together. Man tries to construct an organization and as the organization fails time and time again, the question comes up, realistically, how can we build unless we use a binding stone that will join classes and nations and races. What stone will bind us together except the universal and forgiving Christ? The world must accept that which they have rejected in order to have lasting peace. This will only happen as individuals accept Christ.

Have we not been like the builders, who seeing this awkward stone which has no beauty in itself, first ignoring it, seeing it yet not acknowledging it, then walking by and acknowledging it, yet not reacting to it? Realizing later that this is the only way, and trying to forget, and yet, coming back to the realization that true life can be built only by accepting that which we had rejected and seeing that it is necessary that our life does not have a proper foundation unless it is built upon the foundation stone of Jesus Christ.

FFVA Convention plans underway

Orlando - FFVA President Frank Teets announced that the response has been excellent to invitations mailed out to the association's 39th Annual Meeting which will be held September 22-25 at The Breakers, Palm Beach.

Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association is a non-profit agricultural trade association representing growers, shippers and processors of Florida's vegetable, citrus, tropical fruit & sugar cane industries.

According to Teets, business sessions will include, in addition to the annual membership meeting, informative workshops on two pieces of Federal Initiative and the Immigration Control Act. An update on the association's Intermed program, a concept for shipping products combining rail and truck transportation is also on the workshop agenda.

Teets pointed out that delegates can look forward to an excellent social program including such traditional and enjoyable events as the Welcoming Luncheon; Annual Citrus Breakfast, sponsored again this year by the Florida Citrus Commission; a Western Style Barbecue; and the Annual Banquet which will climax the Convention on Friday evening. While recreational opportunities at The Breakers feature something for everyone, a number of sports activities are scheduled for Friday, September 24, including the Annual Men's Golf Tournament; a T - Round Robin; and a Non-Golfing Putting Tournament.

A number of special events also have been planned for spouses attending the Convention. Teets summarized the Convention plans with the comment, "Everyone is looking forward to the Annual Convention. The program looks very good, the social events relaxing, and the ambience of The Breakers unparalleled."

For further information regarding Florida Fruit & Vegetable Association's Annual Meeting, contact Lew Havard, Convention Coordinator at 305/894-1351.

Summer Annuals

BY Dr. Robert J. Black
IFAS Extension Horticulturist

Now, during the in-between season for planting colorful summer and fall annuals, is an excellent time to select plants and seeds and to locate easy-to-care-for pots and containers.

Annuals are easy to care for and fast to perfection on to containers provided they are not outgrow the size of their containers. Dwarf varieties of summer annuals may be planted several to a pot, spacing each plant approximately six inches apart. One plant should be enough for a six or eight inch pot. Be sure the annual you choose is a summer flowering type and one that will endure the heat and long days of summer and fall.

Other "children of the sun" which will reward summer days with vivid and continual color in pots may include vinca or periwinkle, portulaca, galliardia or blanket flowers, and ornamental peppers.

There are non-flowering plants, too, for containers, which have a wide range of colorful foliage. The gay summer and fall colors of coleus, antirrhinum and acahya or copper leaf are quite adaptable in planter boxes or other containers, and perform well until the arrival of winter.

Lush summer greens for pots may include ferns, fatsia, banana, English ivy, elephant ear and aucuba. Unlike most of the flowering annuals, these foliage plants will grace a shaded location in the garden.

to care for, they do have their demands for success. The major requirement is that of watering. The hot days of summer quickly dry out the container; therefore, they will need watering at least three times a week, if not more often. Use a slow stream of water so as not to disturb the soil or shallow root area. Potting soil should be loose and well drained to insure good water penetration and to prevent soil compaction.

Plant foods in the potted soils are quickly washed from the soils with continued watering thus need replacement with a bi-weekly feeding of a complete liquid houseplant fertilizer.

The removal of faded blooms of flowering container plants is important, as it is actually a slight pruning process which encourages more branching and more blooms. Terminal shoots of young plants may be pinched back to form a more bushy and well-branched plant in the container even before it starts flowering and during early stages of growth.

The wide selection of colorful summer and fall plants for pots, and the portable aspect of pot gardening, which allows for a change or rearrangement in placement or pot grouping, will guarantee fun and attractiveness to home landscaping. Pot gardening also uses a limited amount of room and a small investment for such big rewards. The gardener who will plan ahead may add rich and vivid color with potted summer and fall annuals to grace the patio, poolside, wall or doorstep.

Even though container plants are easy
